

SAMPE Membership Benefits

As a SAMPE member, we welcome you to take advantage of offers opportunities and services available only to SAMPE members. There are three types of memberships from which you can choose: professional, associate, student.

MEETINGS, SEMINARS, AND LITERATURE

Meetings, seminars, publications, and technical papers are forums available for members to discover and access the most advanced materials and processes being developed by the scientific community. Local chapters provide organized gatherings, allowing you to meet others in your community.

NETWORK OPPORTUNITIES

For many of its dedicated members, the most important aspect of SAMPE is the ability to help make new contacts, forge enduring associations, and promote lasting friendships, as well as significant career advancements.

EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE

SAMPE offers strong employment assistance for members through its international network of contacts. If you are seeking employment or are looking for other career opportunities, our membership services adviser is there to help connect you with engineering managers and other decision makers looking to fill positions.

LEADERSHIP GROWTH

Active members are encouraged to become an international officer and serve in SAMPE's international arena. This can provide you a rare opportunity to influence an entire industry. SAMPE is the only technical society disseminating military and NASA- sponsored information on advanced materials and processes to all industries.

PROFESSIONAL RECOGNITION

Annual awards are presented honoring distinguished contributions in material and process engineering, notable technological breakthroughs, and top technical papers. SAMPE provides the international stage for the recognition of your work through several media, including the SAMPE Journal and the Journal of Advanced Materials.

COMPANY EXPOSURE

Introduce and promote your company's newly developed materials, process improvements, and products at regional and international gatherings.

INSURANCE DISCOUNTS

Privileged membership discounts are offered on major medical and life insurance for you and your family.
